Mental functions necessary for everyday life – Medical doctor, nurse practitioner, or psychologist

Your patient is considered markedly restricted in performing the mental functions necessary for everyday life (described below) if, even with appropriate therapy, medication, and devices (for example, memory aids and adaptive aids), they meet both of the following criteria:

- They are unable or take an inordinate amount of time to perform these functions by themselves.
- This is the case all or substantially all of the time (at least 90% of the time).

Mental functions necessary for everyday life include:

- adaptive functioning (for example, abilities related to self-care, health and safety, abilities to initiate and respond to social interactions, and common, simple transactions)
- memory (for example, the ability to remember simple instructions, basic personal information such as name and address, or material of importance and interest)
- problem-solving, goal-setting, and judgment taken together (for example, the ability to solve problems, set and keep goals, and make the appropriate decisions and judgments)

Note

A restriction in problem-solving, goal-setting, or judgment that markedly restricts adaptive functioning, all or substantially all of the time (at least 90% of the time), would qualify.

Is your patient markedly restricted in performing the mental functions necessary for everyday life, as described above?

Yes No

If yes, when did your patient's restriction in performing the mental functions necessary for everyday life become a marked restriction (this is not necessarily the year of the diagnosis, as is often the case with progressive diseases)?

Life-sustaining therapy – Medical doctor or nurse practitionerLife-sustaining therapy for your patient must meet both of the following criteria:

- Your patient needs this therapy to support a vital function, even if this therapy has eased the symptoms.
- Your patient needs this therapy at least 3 times per week, for an average of at least 14 hours per week.

The 14-hour per week requirementInclude only the time your patient must dedicate to the therapy – that is, the patient has to take time away from normal, everyday activities to receive it.If a child cannot do the activities related to the therapy because of their age, include the time spent by the child's primary caregivers to do and supervise these activities.Do not include the time a portable or implanted device takes to deliver the therapy, the time spent on activities related to dietary restrictions or regimes (such as carbohydrate calculation) or exercising (even when these activities are a factor in determining the daily dosage of medication), travel time to receive therapy, medical appointments (other than appointments where the therapy is received), shopping for medication, or recuperation after therapy.

1. Does your patient need this therapy to support a vital function? Yes No
2. Does your patient need this therapy at least 3 times per week? Yes No
3. Does this therapy take an average of at least 14 hours per week? Yes No

If yes, when did your patient's therapy begin to meet the above criteria (this is not necessarily the year of the diagnosis, as is often the case with progressive diseases)?

Year

It is mandatory that you describe how the therapy meets the criteria as stated above. If you need more space, use a separate sheet of paper, sign it and attach it to this form.

Cumulative effect of significant restrictions – Medical doctor, nurse practitioner, or occupational therapistNote: An occupational therapist can only certify limitations for walking, feeding and dressing.Answer all the following questions to certify the cumulative effect of your patient's significant restrictions.

1. Even with appropriate therapy, medication, and devices, does your patient have a significant restriction, that is not quite a marked restriction, in two or more basic activities of daily living or in vision and one or more of the basic activities of daily living? Yes No

If yes, tick at least two of the following, as they apply to your patient:

- vision speaking hearing walking
- eliminating (bowel or bladder functions) feeding dressing mental functions necessary for everyday life

NoteYou cannot include the time spent on life-sustaining therapy.

2. Do these restrictions exist together, all or substantially all of the time (at least 90% of the time)? Yes No
3. Is the cumulative effect of these significant restrictions equivalent to being markedly restricted in one basic activity of daily living? Yes No
4. When did the cumulative effect described above begin (this is not necessarily the year of the diagnosis, as is often the case with progressive diseases)?

General information

What is the DTC?

The disability tax credit (DTC) is a non-refundable tax credit that helps persons with disabilities or their supporting persons reduce the amount of income tax they may have to pay. The disability amount may be claimed once the person with a disability is eligible for the DTC. This amount includes a supplement for persons under 18 years of age at the end of the year. Being eligible for this credit may open the door to other programs.

For more information, go to canada.ca/disability-tax-credit or see Guide RC4064, Disability-Related Information.

Are you eligible?

You are eligible for the DTC only if we approve your application. On this form, a medical practitioner has to indicate and certify that you have a severe and prolonged impairment and must describe its effects.

To find out if you may be eligible for the DTC, fill out the self-assessment questionnaire in Guide RC4064, Disability-Related Information. If we have already told you that you are eligible, do not send another form unless the previous period of approval has ended or if we tell you that we need one. You should tell us if your medical condition improves.

If you receive Canada Pension Plan or Quebec Pension Plan disability benefits, workers' compensation benefits, or other types of disability or insurance benefits, it does not necessarily mean you are eligible for the DTC. These programs have other purposes and different criteria, such as an individual's inability to work.

You can send the form at any time during the year. By sending your form before you file your income tax and benefit return, you may prevent a delay in your assessment. We will review your form before we assess your return. Keep a copy for your records.

Fees – You are responsible for any fees that the medical practitioner charges to fill out this form or to give us more information. However, you may be able to claim these fees as medical expenses on line 330 or line 331 of your income tax and benefit return.

What happens after you send Form T2201?

After we receive Form T2201, we will review your application. We will then send you a notice of determination to inform you of our decision. Our decision is based on the information given by the medical practitioner. If your application is denied, we will explain why on the notice of determination. For more information, see Guide RC4064, Disability-Related Information, or go to canada.ca/disability-tax-credit.
